THEY contain all the improvements which are in all the first class stoyes, and the advantages and improvements over other stoves are in part as follows:

1st. The arrangement for broiling on the front hearth,—an improvement overlooked in other first class stoyes. It has also the same arrangement for broiling on top.

2d. A thorough ventilation of the Over.

3d. Introducing hot air draught to the fire chamber, thereby increasing the draught of the Stove, quickening its operations, and embling it to throw out more heat—a matter much and justiy complained of in other Stoves.

1th. An important improvement in the application of the damper, which throws the heat around the over.

5th. Mach greater weight, consequently heavier plates, and more durable as well as handsomer castings.

6th. A draft damper at each end of the fire box, so that the fire is equalized, and one gridle will heat as quick as the other, also heating the oven in half the time.

7th. Five back protected by soap-stone, so it cannot harn out.

In addition to the above improvements, it has all that is combined in other first class Stoves, viz — Hot water Reserveir.
